Site Design

Our site is fun and easy to use. This makes it more appealing to the user. Our home page has simple navigation as well as a fun image map to welcome the user to our site. We used a lovely background picture to show the perfect pint of Guinness and also made a gallery page highlighting some beautiful picture of the Guinness Storehouse and of the drink itself. We have also done up a history page which shows the history of the drink and the Guinness Storehouse. This part is made easy to read by having our paragraphs highlighted and put into three columns. We also have a location page which gives the main details about the location of the storehouse as well as the opening times also. We used a google map api to show how to get to the Guinness Storehouse which most people on this page will want to know. We also have a contact info page where you can use a contact form to get in touch and leave a comment. The last page is an about us page with simple easy to read paragraphs for the user to get to know us better. We've used bright colours for writing and a darker background so the colours stand out this will make it easier to use for the user.

Review

Making a website as a team was a challenging project. Once we all got on the same idea we ran through the process smoothly. Using each individuals skills we worked well together to make a user friendly and fun website. It was challenging at times trying to get each others code to work together but in the end we got it sorted.

Research

We did a lot of research by looking at similar tourist attraction websites. We wanted to make it different from the site that is already there for the Guinness Storehouse. We also looked up some of the history from different sites and sources.
